

26 FAITH AND THE LIFE CYCLE

All religions that believe in god, the soul, some form of heaven and hell are helpful for the termination of the soul life cycle. All of these things exist and have been interpreted in different ways by different cultures. The guardian of humanity wants every human to acknowledge that their souls exists and to work to release souls from earth.

It would be ideal for the established religions to meet and discuss a list of universal laws – every single religion who believes in God and saving humanity has a say and should be heard. The Guardian will share universal laws but the laws she shares are not all inclusive. Established religions have grasped the universal laws and souls have been released through following these religions.

Filtering through these universal rules and setting a standard in contemporary language would be helpful for those who are searching for a religion or are in the process of gaining faith in the Universe. It will help those who are not confirmed atheists.

For the guardian of humanity to pursue her work protecting humanity, it is essential for humanity to respect the religions and rituals of other cultures. Those religions have flourished and grown with the ideologies and symbols of those regions and each adds positive energy to the world. Do not disregard a religion that is not yours just because you do not understand their ways. Specific religions are helping soul families heal soul family issues – all religions must at their core be helping humanity.

The guardian of humanity has been observing how religion is used in the current society as a weapon or a crutch. Religion is neither and this behaviour is discouraged.

If you belong to a religion, belong with intent and with faith. Listen to the heads of the church but, also listen to your guardian. The head of all religions are human and with their humanity, they are flawed and so is their leadership.

The guardian of humanity respects all leaders and believes they are invaluable to ending the reincarnation cycle but, all leaders on earth are human and may make poor choices due to their own soul family issues and challenges (even if the leader has an entity or guardian as their soul).

Do not use religion as a crutch. You are in control of your choices. Your religion will help guide you but a wrong choice is a wrong choice and your guardian will record any wrong choices. Your belief is a form of guidance but will not save you from demotion if you fail to follow the universal laws.

If you feel your religion is not working for you, find a religion that promotes the laws of the Universe and which works to help humanity end the life cycle process. Do not be pressured to belong to a religion that does not resonate with you. Your indifference and lack of faith will be a disservice to the religion. For religions, the numbers of members is not important, it is the level of faith of those members that matters.

The Guardian has experience in Asia where humans have combined religions. This is an interesting evolution of religion and the Guardian has no problem with humans merging religious beliefs as long as these merged beliefs follow the universal laws and promote protecting humanity as a whole.

The guardian of humanity uses the word reincarnation and recycle. The term reincarnation is currently being used by only a few religions. The Christian religions touch on this topic when they discuss Jesus dying for humanity and then rising again. This is absolutely correct and this happens when a soul is able to be released from the cycle of reincarnation.

If you are living in human form and you are unable to release yourself from the reincarnation cycle, you will be placed again on earth until the cycle is broken. The Christian idea of hell is correct. A soul is placed in a form of hell when demoted but this is not eternal. The recycling centre will set a time for rehabilitation and then the soul will be placed in human form again.

The concept of an eternal hell happens if the soul family members stop working to advance all souls and resolve the soul life cycle. The guardian of humanity will work endlessly to stop this from happening.

Entities, guardians and human souls who come to earth and are able to contain their instinct, will be released for the cycle but this does not mean they will leave the life cycle. Many human souls realise that leaving does not end the soul life cycle for their soul families.

The soul life cycle does not end until all of humanity is released. There is no magic number of souls that get saved. All souls must be saved.

This is the tragedy of the life cycle – a soul family member will see that they are able to leave and, like Jesus, they will choose to return to help the rest of their soul family. This is not considered a sacrifice by the soul.

This is an internal war that can only be won by each individual human soul. The other soul family members work to help each member but they cannot do the work for them. If a soul gives up and leaves their human body, they may be demoted or allowed to return as human.

Being on earth is a struggle and the reincarnation centre understands this which is why the Guardian encourages religions for support.

If your soul gives up and asks to be released, the soul will be allowed to leave. Do not kill the body to release the soul. If the Universe wants to terminate the body, they will use circumstance to do this, it is not the job of humans to terminate human bodies or keep human bodies from ceasing to exist (extended life support.)

Souls that have been released from the soul cycle and who return to earth will choose to go where difficult soul family issues need to be resolved.

These returning entities, souls, and guardians have succeeded in releasing themselves and are more likely to get through the difficulties imposed by challenging soul family issues on a human soul.

The soul/entity that has volunteered to return does not have immunity from the life cycle and they are in jeopardy of not being released depending on how they live their life on earth according to the universal laws. In this way, the reincarnation/life cycle is egalitarian.

If you are the head of established religion, you are not held responsible for the wrong choices of the religion before you were appointed.

As a leader, you have been chosen by humanity to lead the religion. It is your duty to put the religion on the right course and to heal the issues faced by the religion. Nurture faith in your members and help them understand the universal laws.

Do not be discouraged by the immense challenge faced in today's society. Your personal guardians, the guardian of your religion and all religions and the guardian of humanity are there to help you. Do not be afraid to turn to other religions for guidance and assistance. You are all working toward the same aim of saving humanity from the recycle process.

If you do your best, that doesn't mean that the religion or institution will survive. This failure is not considered your failure and as long as your intent and effort were appropriate, you will not receive a demotion mark at the recycle centre.

Religions and institutions that do not evolve will be replaced. This is the cycle of the earth created by the Universe.

27 LIFE CYCLE AND RELATIONSHIPS

We wrote about soul families and reincarnation and how we never know which person or entity or biological form on earth may be associated with us and will interact with us in our life cycle.

Although we may not know about the souls that we interact with on earth, we can be very careful about which souls we allow into our life journey especially when it comes to romantic attachments.

The idea that history repeats itself is accurate. History does repeat itself but the challenge presented can be treated differently when this repetition appears to help avoid further life cycle issues being passed on to the rest of our soul family.

The Hindu religion acknowledges this issue with their class system and their arranged marriages. This is not to say that this is the best way of dealing with lifecycle issues but it is one way to avoid finding yourself in terrible life circumstances outside of your own personal soul family challenges.

The problem in western society is that families fail to disclose to their children the skeletons in their closets so the offspring live a life expecting a bed of roses and are unaware of all of the traps set by their immediate soul families.

It is these skeletons that will continue to crop up in future generations and mar the lives of our soul families. All those dirty little secrets in a family will be re-lived by future generations until the secrets are exposed, released and healed.

There is no way to avoid life cycle issues. The complicated game played by the Universe to release us from the recycle process will guarantee that specific issues will happen.

Those incidents can be minimised by the soul family and the decisions made by the soul family but you cannot avoid the issues needing to be resolved – the Universe will find a way to make you live through them.

When an issue appears, there will always be a choice involved with the issue and it will be up to the soul family to try and make the proper choice to heal the situation so that future soul family members do not have to live this choice.

The Universe will try to help you make the right choice but, because humanity has free will, the Universe cannot change a decision once it is made – only work to mitigate the damages.

Example of a Life Cycle Repeating

A woman becomes pregnant and the man is forced to marry her when she is eight months pregnant. This is a terrible shame for the woman and a spiteful act on the part of the man. This secret was not disclosed to later generations (the grandchildren) who assumed that their grandparents loved each other since they produced 17 children.

But, the grandmother was kept pregnant for 17 years because the grandfather was forced to marry her and he kept her pregnant until she could no longer have children. When those children were old enough, he sent them away to boarding school so she did not have her children in her household and, once they reached adulthood, he tried to have them all join the church to avoid future generations of their union.

At least 17 soul family members could now relive this conflict. Decades later, a grandchild of this couple gets pregnant. She is pressured to marry the father of the child even though she does not love him and he does not love her. The grandchild decides to stay single and raise the child alone without the help of her parents or the biological father. She has broken away from the life cycle issue experienced by her grandparents.

Once her decision was made, the family elders exposed the secret and the Universe ensured that the mother and child were safe from harm.

Soul Family Issues and a Romantic Relationship

We do not have soul mates, we have soul families with a purpose – to release our souls from the recycle process.

You may have a quest on earth to search for a soul. Our souls are complete on their own and do not need to be with another soul to be complete. The Universe created woman and created man as two separate creatures. They are not one but they both came from the same source at the same time and are whole by themselves. What you are missing and searching for is the attachment to the Universe which was severed when humans were given free will by the guardian of humanity.

So, in this life time, you will only be whole by yourself. Your romantic relationships are to resolve life cycle issues, procreate, raise children and perhaps spend time with a soul that you enjoyed spending time with before. The Universe is not a taskmaster. With free will, you can decide to work with souls you have worked with before or work all by yourself.

The Universe does not see romantic relationships along gender lines. As we stated in the soul imprint, a soul is a soul and if it finds itself romantically attracted to a body that is the same gender, the Universe does not care. A romantic relationship does not guarantee children, it creates a soul partnership which will work on the soul recycle issues.

This partnership is created when you become romantic with an individual and have intercourse – you bind yourself to that person. Romantic partners' life issues are like a virus and have to work their way out of your system. The time it takes to separate from their life cycle may be one year or longer. This is why individuals should avoid having casual sex. Having many sexual partner means that you are attaching yourself to many life issue cycles which will create a chaotic life. This is never the intention of the universe. The Universe is not interested in having chaos. The Universe is interested in balance.

There is no way to avoid this merging of life issues when having sex. Religions ask you to abstain from sex for moral reasons but the Universe asks you to be selective with your sexual partners so your life path stays in line with resolving your soul recycle process. The Guardian does not want you sidetracked by a soap opera mini-series which distracts your soul from its job of following the universal laws and avoid a demotion.

The Universe wants humans to have sex but with full knowledge of the person they are interacting with and with as much knowledge as possible about each families' history. This knowledge allows you to proceed with the relationship with full awareness of issues that may be presented to you in the relationship.

There are so many soul life issues and the Universe will insert a soul family issue to be resolved when the circumstances present them- selves. The more aware of this process, the more careful you can be with your choices.

Humans will find themselves attracted to many other humans at an instinctual level for the creation of children. Sometimes humans will be attracted to each other's souls. Sometimes a soul will find no attraction whatsoever and create no romantic bonds.

Romantic love is not required of souls in a human body but working on life issues created by reincarnation is a requirement.

As a human, you have free will. The Universe only asks that you go forward fully armed with the knowledge you need to deal with the issues that present themselves. If you chose to make this more difficult, the Universe will try and help to mitigate your choice but, it can't put you on an easier path if the path chosen is a difficult one.

Hiding away and becoming a recluse will not solve this problem. The Universe will always find a way for you to help solve issues for your soul family. It is the reason you recycled on earth and it is the reason you have been given a human body. No one is recycled into human form without having some role in resolving soul family life cycle issues.
